

Ottawa Censure Move Fails As Press Charter Support Denied

Revue Says It's "Got It Made"

"It's a brand new show", said producer Ian Binnie at Red and White Revue rehearsals last night.

"We found at the beginning of the Christmas holidays that our plot-line had been geared to an average Red and White Revue cast. However, we could not possibly have expected the tremendous flow of experienced talent that came out for auditions."

We revamped the entire show, eliminating many minor parts and placing more dependance upon our experienced principals, the cream of the McGill theatrical crop".

NEW TITLE

The new title, just announced last night, is "Got It Made", and the new story deals with the rise and subsequent fall of a rock and roll idol. Intricate dance routines and modern musical numbers highlight the show. Brian Macdonald, who directed "My Fur Lady" is with the revue again and reportedly is very enthusiastic about the script.

A lot of the performers in "Got It Made" are old hands in Red and White productions. Those who saw "Reign or Shine" last year will remember Marilyn Lightstone's spirited performance as the Prime Minister's secretary. Marilyn, along with Bill Lyon and Allan Shlach, will be the stars of "Got It Made". The hit of "Revue's Choice" this past autumn, Linda Randall, will be "on stage" come February 4th, as will be Liane Marshall and Pierre Perron.

Tickets for "Got It Made" will go on sale next week.

Coffee Brewed at Union

It's not an early spring thaw; just the monthly overflow from the overworked plumbing of our good old Union. In an exclusive interview with the Daily, the plumbers treating the aged hardware announced that the old pipes wept more each day. Alas, we do need a new Union.

OTTAWA — Jan. 13 — (CUP) — The students' council at the University of Ottawa came close to censuring one of the student editors Sunday, for his part in the passing of the Charter of the Student Press in Canada, at the annual Canadian University Press last December.

At McGill, the Students' Executive Council voted Monday night to accept "in principle" the Charter.

However, the Council refused to put its principles into action and defeated a motion which would have placed a guarantee of editorial freedom in the Students' Society constitution.

BEAUBIEN CHARGED

Michel Beaubien, associate-editor of La Rotonde, the Ottawa paper, faced a charge of censorship because he had demanded, and vigorously participated in, the creation of the charter which deals with the freedom of the student press. Council member Pierre Joanisse claimed M. Beaubien did not speak for the council.

M. Beaubien told delegates to the CUP conference that such a charter was essential because of "certain influences" that obliged French member papers to adopt certain attitudes for fear of reprisals. He also stressed the belief that the Canadian student press should be free from all external pressures, financial or otherwise.

Following the proposal of the motion, M. Beaubien defended his action, stating that the facts were and that "the main purpose of the speech was the adoption of a student press charter by which the member newspapers of the Canadian University Press would sound a collective voice against these types of interference".

Jean Carrière, editor of La Rotonde, and Ontario Regional president, defended his associate, "M. Beaubien did not speak for himself at the Quebec conference, he said. He spoke for the delegation from La Rotonde. If you are going to censure anyone, it should be La Rotonde, and not M. Beaubien. Furthermore, I would ask that if a vote is going to be taken, you change the motion of censure to one of non-confidence which entails my resignation."

MOTION WITHDRAWN

At this point, council president André Ouellet, pointed out to the council that it would be unwise to add to the publicity that the University of Ottawa has already gained by its past actions against La Rotonde. Here M. Joanisse withdrew his motion.

The Council then passed a motion stating that it considered M. Beaubien's statements as personal opinions, and that they did not reflect those of the council.

McGill Opens Barbados Lab

On January 8th, Dr. F. Cyril James, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of McGill University unveiled a plaque commemorating the benefaction of Commander Carlyon Wilfroy Bellairs, R.N. in memory of his wife and by so doing, officially opened a new Research Laboratory at the University's Bellairs Research Institute in Barbados.

MARINE STUDIES

This new laboratory was constructed in 1959 to compensate for inadequate facilities which the various McGill studies required. In addition to an aquarium and water tables, it comprises several other features to be used for studies in the whole field of marine biology and particularly of the flying fish which comprise the bulk of all fresh fish consumed in the Barbados. Some of the studies which have been carried on at the Bellairs Research Institute include ocean currents, plankton, and water masses. The Institute has, in addition, given advice to the Government of Barbados on the creation of a refrigeration plant and the extension and development of the fisheries in general throughout the Island.

GEOGRAPHICAL INVESTIGATIONS

Under the Department of Geography, McGill has as well entered upon extensive research in tropical geography. Investigations are being conducted into the relationship between the energy and moisture balances of the earth's surface and the growth of vegetation, especially the cultivated crops and studies on humid tropical settlement. The Barbados Government has granted five acres of valuable sugar cane to this department for experimental purposes. The McGill Department is also assisting in the search for new pasture grass and a start was made last summer on a land utilization survey of the Island.

IN SEVENTH YEAR

The Bellairs Research Institute has been actively functioning since 1954. In his will the late Commander Bellairs bequeathed five acres of land on the coast of St. James, his residence "Sandacres", and several other buildings on condition that the University should establish there the Bellairs Research Institute for the study of special problems of the West Indies, realizing that Canada had a vital interest in the countries of the Caribbean.

Dr. James acted in the place of Sir Grantley Adams, Prime Minister of the West Indies who was prevented from officiating on account of illness.

James Reviews Russia Of Today

Dr. F. Cyril James, Principal and Vice-chancellor of McGill University, will deliver a speech on "Some Aspects of the Russian Tour" in Moyse Hall, tonight at 8:30. Following the address, which is under the auspices of SCOPE, there will be a question period. The evening will be chaired by Bryce Weir, President of the S.E.C. Admission is free.

Dr. James toured Russia last spring on a tour sponsored by the United States Educational Delegation of the Ford Foundation. The group visited many cities, among them Stockholm, Leningrad, Moscow, Warsaw and Berlin.

EXTENSIVE TRIP

Travelling thousands of miles, Dr. James spoke with hundreds of citizens during four weeks spent inside the Soviet Union and two weeks in neighbouring countries. He has reported, "We learned enough to realize some of the domestic problems that confront the U.S.S.R. in the field of economic as well as that of education, and to develop an honest appreciation of the effort that is being put forth to find solutions for them... The man living in Russia realizes with profound relief that thought and discussion are much freer today than they were in 1950... It is my own opinion that the present educational effort of Russia, which encourages millions of able young men and women to think, to ask questions, to discuss ideas, will make it harder and harder as the years go by for any future government to impose upon human thought the regimentation that Stalin imposed during the later years of his life".

At McGill, Dr. James became Professor of Political Economy, Principal and Vice-chancellor of the University. Among his earlier appointments were the following: Professor of Finance and Economic History, and Chairman of the Graduate Faculty, Social Science, at the University of Pennsylvania.

To Clear the Air

With the calling of a new election for a representative from Commerce, the Students' Executive Council Monday night completed what we hope is the last chapter of the most ludicrous and botched up affair we have seen the student government handle in our four years at McGill. What started out as just an ordinary S.E.C. election has become lost in a smokescreen of official and unofficial charges and protests, an infinity of innuendos and implications regarding both the candidate who protested the original Commerce election and student electoral officials. Interested persons can read the entire story in S.E.C. minutes which should be posted on each faculty notice board.

But now that the smoke has partially cleared we might perhaps make a few observations. Firstly, and most important, it has been demonstrated that the S.E.C. is not the "clique" some persons have accused it of being, but rather a body which will go to great lengths to see that justice is done. Secondly, the Council has learned a well deserved lesson the hard way — never run an election without an adequate and well enforced set of rules. (Steps have been taken so that the proposed new constitution of the Students' Society will include such a provision.)

In the light of a new election, however, voters in Commerce would do well to forget that the question of irregularities ever came up. Once again they will be asked to cast their vote for a candidate of their choice and they should ignore any implication arising from the irregularity and subsequent investigations. As far as we are concerned, both candidates are of the utmost integrity.

The proven irregularity is most logically explained as one of human error in handling out ballots in R.V.C. Conceivably, flurried deputy returning officers could mistakenly have given ballots to non-Commerce students voting in the Women's Union election at R.V.C. And, even if the irregularity were of a deliberate nature, we believe that no candidate had a hand in such "ballot box stuffing". Rather, if it were deliberate, and we have grave doubts that it was, it could have been no more than "over-helpful" friends, acting without the candidate's knowledge. Consequently, we cannot state too strongly that the irregularities and investigation should not prejudice the new election in Commerce. We hope that students will cast their votes solely on the basis of which candidate they believe to be the most qualified.

Election Footnote

Now that the S.E.C. has proven that irregularities occurred at the R.V.C. balloting station would it be perhaps not unwise for the Women's Union and the Red Wings to re-run any close elections which depended on the same box?

Letters to the Editor

Species Will Not Perish!

Sir:
Reflections upon "The Sex Thing Again". — Mr. Morrison, your article was greatly appreciated and enjoyed. However, whose fault is it that "there are too many girls who prowl, pyjama-clad, the jax-scented halls of RVC on Saturday nights"? Never mind the rediscovery of the tunnel, as despite the Victorian appearance of our residents, we do have telephones! Gentlemen (and engineers) it is up to you to break up the ranks of "the advanced patrols of an army of virgin warriors!"

The species will not perish!

Blackboards For Washrooms?

Sir:
We may smugly sit back and think our university is a pretty fine place, but there is one area in which it is sadly lacking. Indeed, if something is not done to rectify this intolerable situation a great deal of money will be wasted from the students' pockets.

The situation, of which I am speaking, concerns the universities washrooms; specifically, the cubicles. If each one were supplied with a blackboard and chalk think of all the money that would be saved. Count how many pens are ruined in the popular pastime of decorating walls. Count how much we pay our janitors to clean these walls. And as for myself, I now find it necessary to purchase a pair of bifocals as a result of attempting to decipher the numerous gems of literature and art.

I am waiting to see other students reactions to this in various well-marked places throughout the university. If the reaction merits it, I shall propose a motion to the S.E.C.

TOM PASKAL

P.S.—I am sure that the Engineering Undergraduate Society would aid in the financing of this project.

Print Week Tour

This week, Jan. 11 to Jan. 16, has been named "Printing Week 1960". Its purpose is to inform the public and primarily the students about all phases of the printing industry.

To help in the enlightenment of the public several tours have been planned. Tonight LA PRESSE offers guided tours of its Printing Plant. The La Presse Building is located at 7 St. James Street West, and the tours begin at 7:30 pm. To join these free tours, students will be asked to show their student identity cards.

Players Reveal Three Plays For Experimentals '60

The McGill Players' Club announces that three student written plays have been selected for production in EXPERIMENTALS '60.

In "A Small Play For Large Egos", three actors and a writer reveal the image in which each conceives himself; when their director assesses them in relation to a new play, each is forced to relinquish this image. Jeanne Pinneo, the author, has had considerable experience with summer stock productions in the United States, and has had two of her plays staged recently. Last year, Mrs. Pinneo's one-act play "A Matter of Faith" was produced for EXPERIMENTALS '59.

Charles Woodhouse and Bruce Stovel have translated and adapted Aristophanes' "The Frogs". This play, one of the Athenian playwright's best known comedies, is a satire on poetry and politics. The 5th century Greek humour has been re-written in terms of modern situations.

James Rother, who has made literary contributions to the McGill Daily and to Forge has written "The People Are Not With Us". This is a relatively abstract play dealing with the simultaneous disintegration of illusion and reality in the lives of four people.

Castings for the plays will be held in the evenings next week.

Charity Campaign Gets Underway Here Next Week

The McGill Combined Charities Campaign will begin on Monday, January 18, and continue until Friday, January 23.

The aim for this year is an average donation of two dollars per student. This is a small amount in comparison to the needs of the citizens of our community. The Combined Charities Campaign allows the student to give without discriminating between the various welfare agencies, since the proceeds will go to a number of Montreal's Protestant, Catholic and Jewish welfare organizations. Also, the

★ Redmen On Victory Trail ★

Trounce Carabins 5-1

by LENNY FLANZ

The McGill Redmen unveiling a surprising brand of fire-wagon hockey last night soundly thrashed their opponents from the other side of the mountain, to the merry tune of 5-1.

McGill's first goal came off the stick of Tim Peters with only 31 seconds having expired in the first period, and the Redmen never looked back, proceeding to skate the Carabins into the ice.

Accurate passing, fast skating and hard checking, backed up by superb goaltending and fine defensive play all added to an almost flawless performance by our home team. The Redmen could do nothing wrong and conversely the University of Montreal could do nothing right.

SKILLFUL DEFENSE

At one point in the first period, both Robson and Moseley were banished to the sin-bin — one right after the other. However, Coach Ken Murray sent out Konyk, Richards and Peters. This trio treated the spectators to two minutes of spectacular hockey, as time and again they broke up dangerous rushes and cleared the puck down the ice.

At full strength again, the Redmen continued pressing and their efforts were finally rewarded at the nine minute mark when Joe Irvin, assisted by Molson popped in the second counter. Ten seconds later G. Belisle of the Carabins capitalized on a defensive blunder and blasted in a twenty-footer; goalie Herron had no chance to stop the shot.

TWO IN SECOND

In the second canto, McGill broke from the barrier quickly as Joe Irvin set up Molson who promptly deked goalie Groleau out of his pants and deftly flipped in the rubber at the 39 second mark. Not to be outdone, Merritt swooped down his wing and shoveled the disc to the reliable Konyk who, in "Rocket" Richard fashion, with one player draped around his neck rifled the disc into the upper right-hand corner of the cage.

Skating furiously, McGill retained possession of the puck for most of the play but were thwarted on the doorstep time and again. On one occasion two McGill players swept in alone on the goaler but failed to score. With two seconds to go, Robson took a long shot from just inside the blueline that hit the goal post.

In the third frame McGill continued to dominate play. On another breakaway, Moseley once again hit the goalpost, but seconds later he made up for this by hitting paydirt on a shot from the side of the nets.

Although the final score was 5-1 in favour of the Redmen, nevertheless with a little more luck the team could have had at least three more deserved goals.

There was no similarity between this team and the team that started out the season. It would be difficult to single out any one player responsible for the victory, for the team was solid from the goalie out.

NDC Cagerettes Edge Co-eds

In a Women's Open Basketball League game, Notre Dame Centre eked out a 21-20 win over McGill Juniors Tuesday night.

As a result of their win, NDC moved into a second place tie with the "Y" and McGill in the junior standings.

It was nip and tuck all the way as McGill and Notre Dame Centre exchanged basket for basket. Half time score showed McGill out in front by two points, 9-7.

The first half of the contest was duplicated in the second stanza, as every two-pointer was answered by the opposing team. However, the home team, NDC scored the twenty-first point and time ran out. That was the ball game.

McGill's Stephanie Stevenson, maintaining her high average up front, accounted for half of the team's total points, while the rest of the scoring was attributed to the efforts of Darlene Sumner, Liz Bertram, and Eleanor Gaetz. Madeline Lambert of NDC was the top sniper of the winners with 10 points.

This was the initial encounter of the two teams this year. The game also featured the first time that McGill had played in the new Notre Dame Centre. Managing the team this year is Ellie Kirschenbaum.

A practice of the team has been called for tonight at 7:45 pm in the Currie gym.

TONIGHT'S ACTION

Tonight, McGill Seniors will tangle with the YWCA at 8:15 pm in the Dorchester Street "Y". A McGill win would move the "Red and White" into a tie for first spot in the Women's Open Basketball League.

McGill presently is two points behind the "Y" and Macdonald College is only two points behind McGill. This is the second meeting of the two teams this year, the first game ending in a 37-23 win for the "Y". The "Y", last year's champs are out to defend the league championship.

News For The Co-eds

McGill will be sending their volleyball and badminton teams against Queens' this Saturday in an invitation Meet. Last year McGill played host to a similar tournament.

Miss Proyer, coach of the badminton team has selected for co-eds to participate in the badminton tourney. Scheduled to see action in the singles games are Nancy Hankin, of swimming fame, and Nancy Anglin, intramural champ. Bertha Kallison and Roz Saginur, intramural doubles winners will represent McGill in the doubles.

The volleyball team hardly resembles the team that was pitted against Queens' last year. Only two holders, Judy Zeisler and Caron Brunsch are members of this year's team. One of the outstanding newcomers to the squad is Mary Lou Linley, a second year Physio student, who has turned in some outstanding performances in exhibition games recently.

SKI DAY

The WAA is again holding a Ski Day for all those interested in participating in a day's fun of skiing in the Laurentians. The exact location of the meet has been announced as Summit Sauvage, near Val Morin. The bus is scheduled to leave Royal Victoria College at 8 am and will return around supper time.

The fee for the entire day, including bus fare, towels and lunch is only five dollars. All those interested should make their remittance of five dollars at the Phys. Ed. Office before January 20. Participation in races is optional.
